

Where is the shopping as eye-opening as the coffee?

The historic university city of Leuven in Flanders, northern Belgium, is a veritable shoppers' paradise. Browse among its shops and flea markets and you could find yourself with anything from flowers and antiques to knick-knacks and local produce. And while you take it all in, you might need a coffee to revive yourself. Luckily, there are 176 cafés where you can soak up the continental atmosphere in the shadow of Leuven's stunning architecture and medieval university whilst pondering those all-important retail dilemmas. Much more fun than nipping down to your local high street. Find out in Flanders
