

Discover it all at the airport...

There's savings for everyone at BAA airport shops. So, as How Not to Decorate design experts Colin McAllister and Justin Ryan discovered, it makes sense to plan your shopping trip and get there early.

Think airport boutiques are for last minute purchases? Think again. As keen shoppers Colin McAllister and Justin Ryan found out, it pays to fit them into your itinerary. There are huge benefits to shopping at the airport. Whether you're travelling to Mauritius or Manchester, everything is cheaper, due to tax free prices (savings can be up to 15%) and the wealth of brands on offer are enough to rival Bond Street. So if you've been drooling over a status handbag or designer sunglasses, it makes sense to wait until you get to the airport. BAA London airports Heathrow, Gatwick and Stansted all offer extra shopping services too.

If you're in a hurry, then preplan your purchases by going to www.baa.com/shopping. Or if you have the time then relax at the Seafood Bar for a glass of champagne and a plate of smoked salmon before you fly, or for pure indulgence visit the Rejuve Well Being Club for a luxurious treatment or workout.

There's also a fantastic service called shop & collect. This allows you to shop till you drop before you fly, go off on your trip, have your items packed and waiting for you on your return. The service is free and available to anyone travelling in the EU. Great prices, great service and great products – it's what shopping at the airport is all about.
